Present: Mr. Carrier, Ms. Downing, Ms. Hess, Ms. Moulding, Ms. Reall, Ms. Sheirer, Mr. Twarog, Ms. Wight. Also Present: Cheri Buckhout, Interim Treasurer of Forbes Library; Kat Janeczek, Children’s Department; Maria Sperduti, Forbes Outreach Volunteer Coordinator; Mr. Joshua Paul of Bartholomew Inc.; Serena Smith, observer for the Friends of Forbes Library; Dylan Gaffney, representative of the Forbes Library Employee Association (FLEA); Susan Enz. Absent: None.

The meeting was called to order at 3:48 PM in the Coolidge Room.

Bartholomew Inc.
The Trustees introduced themselves and Mr. Paul to Cheri Buckhout, the Interim Treasurer of Forbes Library. Mr. Paul presented the Portfolio Review as of November 15, 2016. The value of the portfolio is approximately $4.65 million. He discussed the current cash level, performance, and asset allocation. The greatest gains over time are in domestic and international equity, which also carry the greatest risk, and make up about 50% of the portfolio. The other 50% is made up of bonds and alternatives which balance the account and smooth out the volatility. The return on the portfolio is 2.31% year to date. Mr. Paul said the market is at a point right now where it is fairly valued. The income on domestic equity is 1.84% in 2015 compared with 2.55% in 2014, however the value of the stocks has increased. The net amount that Forbes has invested is $2.5 million and the market value of the portfolio is currently $4.65, a net return of approximately 7% since they took over the account. Mr. Paul discussed the individual asset positions and said that some stocks don’t pay dividends but increase in value over time. It makes sense to own both type of stocks to preserve cash flow during years of slow growth in the market. Mr. Paul said that international markets continue to be depressed and show very low returns, which continues to make the U.S. market more appealing.

Mr. Carrier ask Mr. Paul to remove the Bisallion Fund from the report as it has been closed for several years, and to group all the book funds together on the report.

Outreach Delivery Service
Maria Sperduti, Outreach Delivery Volunteer Coordinator, attended the meeting to talk about the program and answer any questions the Trustees may have. Ms. Sperduti thanked the Trustees for inviting her to the meeting and for supporting the program. She said it has been a delightful experience working with the volunteers and the patrons and she distributed quotes from some of the outreach volunteers. The Trustees said they appreciated her efforts. The program has distributed over 2,300 items to patrons since February, and the feedback has been very good. She would love to reach out to the community and find patrons who would appreciate someone coming into their homes to provide materials they may not be aware of and cannot get themselves. The library can reach out to housebound individuals through Meals on Wheels and other services. Ms. Sperduti currently works about 3 hours a week and suggested adding 2 more hours a week to expand the patron and volunteer bases.

Ms. Downing said this first year of the program was a transition year and a lot of the work of organizing the program was put in up front. The stipend for the volunteer coordinator is current $3,000 and adding an additional 2 hours per week would raise that by $2,000 to $5,000. If the Trustees approve, the Friends could be approached and asked for the additional funding at their December meeting. The Trustees agreed that a sustainable funding model is crucial to the success of the program, and it cannot rely upon individual’s donations each year. In response to a question from Mr. Twarog, Ms. Sperduti said the program is currently servicing 4 facilities, and would be able to increase that by 3 more with the extra hours, and also expand to include individual homes. Mrs. Sperduti would also increase the volunteer base to meet the demand of the increased patron load. Ms. Downing said that the program has not been widely publicized during this first transitional year, and the focus has been on converting the existing patron base to the new service model. Ms. Downing said that the system is now in place and they are prepared to open it up to more people. Flyers could be sent with Meals on Wheels deliveries, and the city could be targeted section by section so as not to overwhelm the program. Ms. Moulding said that funding by the Friends will provide stability to the program, and donors interested in supporting the program could contribute to the Friends. The Trustees discussed concerns that operating the program through volunteers will result in the city not funding the outreach service and perhaps expecting volunteers to staff other library programs. Ms. Downing said the outreach volunteers function more as surrogates for the patrons they serve and do not step behind the desk to take on staff roles. Ms. Wight asked about the other stakeholders involved including the facilities where the patrons live, and Ms. Sperduti said they have not shown much interest in the program. Ms. Enz suggested approaching the management at nursing homes again to convince them that the outreach program provides many health and quality of life benefits to residents and is a great selling point for their facility. Ms. Downing said there is a new Senior Center director. They have one van for medical appointments and are getting a second van that could be used to transport patrons to the library.

Mr. Twarog made a motion to increase the Volunteer Outreach Coordinator hours by 2 hours per week, and to ask the Friends to fund the additional $2,000 in stipend cost. Ms. Hess seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

The Trustees thanked Ms. Sperduti for her work. Ms. Sperduti and Ms. Enz left the meeting at 4:30 PM.

Ms. Downing said she understands the Trustees concerns and appreciates their leap of faith. It is a priority for her to look for ways to fit Outreach back into the regular budget with stable funding from the city.

Secretary’s Report

Ms. Hess moved that the Secretary’s Report of October 19 be accepted and placed on file. Mr. Twarog seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Ms. Hess moved that the Secretary’s Report of the executive session of October 19 be accepted and placed on file. Ms. Wight seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Ms. Reall moved that the Secretary’s Report of November 10 be accepted and placed on file. Ms. Wight seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.
Treasurer’s Report
Ms. Buckhout presented the Treasurer’s Report of October 31, 2016. The Aid Fund closed at the end of October with a surplus of $2,300, reducing the cumulative deficit to $6,800. The deficit is mostly a result of the first 3-pay period month and the insurance being paid in full for the year in July. The Book Fund has a deficit of $800 in October, decreasing the fund to $13,200. This is due to the increase in book purchases. The Lyman Special Collections Fund has a deficit of $1,400. $8,000 was transferred out of the endowment and into the fund in November, which will bring the fund to positive $6,400. The E.F.T. Fund has a deficit of $2,800 due to additional legal fees paid in October. The Garvey Book & Media Fund has a balance of $5,600. Income for the month was $2,800. The Halberstadt Fund has a balance of $6,000 and dropped $200 for supplies and miscellaneous expenses. The Doland Fund ended with a positive balance of $9,600 after spending only $100 in supplies. The interest income earned from the operating accounts at Florence Bank are deposited into the Edward Morin Fund as it has the largest surplus balance and remains at a consistent level.

Ms. Hess made a motion to transfer $2,800 from the Cutter Book Fund in the endowment to cover the deficit in the E.F.T. Fund. Ms. Wight seconded the motion which was passed unanimously.

Mr. Carrier told Ms. Buckhout that the Treasurer has been authorized by the Trustees to make a $5,000 transfer from the Garvey Book/Media Fund to the endowment whenever the balance in the account exceeds $5,000.

Mr. Twarog moved that the Treasurer’s Report of October 31, 2016 be accepted and placed on file. Ms. Wight seconded the motion which was passed unanimously.

Children’s Department Report
Kat Janeczek, Interim Head of the Children’s Department reported on the activities of the Children’s Department for the last year. Ms. Janeczek thanked the Trustees for having her at the meeting. She has been at Forbes since 2009 when she was on work study. She left and then returned last year and has been holding down the fort for the past month since Ms. McGowan retired. Ms. Janeczek said that the department is running well, encouraging dreamers and readers to change the future and the world. The children’s department goes beyond the traditional concept of a children’s library to provide a safe space for homework and tutoring with a new emphasis on programming. It provides an important function of society in terms of education while not focusing solely on reading and learning. Teens spend time in the young adult room interacting with each other and playing on the computer. An issue that has arisen is the placement of the two children’s computers in the young adult room. There is a big crowd of regular users after school creating a blend of older kids working on homework side by side with five and six-year-olds using the computers, which can be noisy. There is not enough space for everyone, and young adults need a space they can call their own. They purchased two Kindle Fires with touch screens for kids that are preloaded with games, which can help ameliorate that problem. The Trustees thanked Ms. Janeczek for bringing this to their attention and said it is something to address in the coming year.

Ms. Janeczek said that progress since last year includes the expansion of Paco’s fish tank funded by the Friends. The Children’s Department is now issuing library cards to children in fifth grade and below which makes it easier for parents to keep track online of what their children have checked out. They have installed path finders based on topics that perhaps kids do not want to ask librarians about including LGBTQ subjects. Programming has been very successful this year. The summer reading program was extended and ran from Memorial Day to Labor Day. It included challenge maps for three different age ranges and reading levels. The emphasis for the younger kids was on getting outside and keeping active. Other programming included movie nights, such as a “drive-in” movie night where kids brought in card board boxes they decorated at home and sat in their “cars” to watch the movie. There is a yoga class that brings in about 9 to 10 parents and children per week. There was a science series on Saturdays spearheaded by Stephen Stover. There was a stuffed animal sleep over program that was very successful on social media where children dropped off their stuffed animals who were then taken pictures of using the library at night. A sensory story time has been started, and materials were purchased with funds from the LSTA Serving Patrons with Disabilities grant. So far attendance has been limited, but there are plans to reach out to preschools and grow the program in the future. Recently there was the reception and celebration of the new mural on the stairway down to the Children’s Department, where children got the chance to paint flowers on the mural. Ms. Janeczek is excited about the new department head, Sarah Johnson, and is looking forward to her starting on December 2. Ms. Janeczek attended the Jackson Street library fundraiser last spring and Forbes is looking for ways to facilitate connections and help. They are coordinating efforts this year for the giving tree, and will be distributing items. Ms. Janeczek then showed a video made with funds from the LSTA grant about what to expect when visiting the library, which included a tour of the Children’s Department. The Trustees thanked Ms. Janeczek for her report and all the work she’s done for the Children’s Department.

Administrative Report

Ms. Moulding and the Trustees congratulated Ms. Downing who was chosen to be the next director of Forbes Library. Ms. Downing will begin her directorship on January 1. Staff and patrons have been effusively enthusiastic over her promotion.

Saturday, November 5, was the ribbon cutting for the new Children’s Room stairway mural. Over 60 children and adults listened to artist Jarrett Krosoczka tell the story of the mural and read his new book. Attendees finished off the mural by painting flowers on the picture of the library lawn at the bottom of the stairs. Mairaid Poulin who has worked off and on in the children’s department for years from high school and through her time at Smith College, will be leaving at the end of the month to take a job at the Williamstown Historical Society. We thank her for all she has brought to the children’s department and wish her the best as she begins her new career. The Trustees asked Ms. Moulding to prepare a thank you note for Mr. Krosoczka for his work on the mural.

After several requests to Rich Parasiliti, tree warden, and Donna LaScaleia, head of the DPW; on November 1, the DPW sent a truck, chipper, and lift to remove the hanging branch in the large maple tree at the back of the parking lot. However, despite a request from Jason, they did not trim any other dead branches while they were up in the tree.

Forbes has a new book bag to sell. It is very handsome and features an image from an old woodcut of the library. The cost is $11 each. Special thanks to Steven Stover and Dylan Gaffney for designing them.

In 2015 Forbes installed a new elevator to provide safe and reliable access into the building. The library was also commended for providing accessible formats such as large print and Braille materials, audio books and videos with audio adaptations. In the Stavros Access Awards program Forbes is praised, "Just as exciting are the many new assistive technology devices and software applications: magnifying glasses along with a desktop magnifier and screen magnification software, screen reader software, and listening systems at service desks. A new system will have these features and would cost about $27,000.
